Directions : (For Question No. 81 to 90) : Read the following passages and answer the questions on them :

Passage I : One of the bad effects of bad news is that over the years the readers tend to be less and less shocked. No wonder that we have taken in our stride the brutal news of a mob invading a snake park and lynching most of its denizens. The ancient Romans believed that snakes died of shock if they saw naked men. Now we have proved the theory to be true in a special sense. It was the most shameful kind of human nakedness – minds stripped of all humanism – that confronted the surprised snakes and caused them a painful death.

- 81. Over a period of time, the effect of bad news on readers is that they become :
- (1) cynical about life
 - (2) frightened of living
 - (3) apathetic to happenings around them
 - (4) aware of the outside world
- 82. The author describes "lynching" as 'brutal news' because :
- (1) brutal denizens were killed
 - (2) the mob was not stopped by the authorities
 - (3) the snakes had become a menace to the public
 - (4) the act of the mob was brutal
- 83. What does the entire passage reflect ?
- (1) The helplessness of snakes against a mob of killers
 - (2) The author's righteous indignation at the killing of snakes
 - (3) The similarity between ancient Romans and the modern men
 - (4) The inhuman attitude of the authorities towards the outrage

Passage II : It is strange that according to his position in life, an extravagant man is admired or despised. A successful businessman does nothing to increase his popularity by being careful with his money. He is expected to display his success to have a smart car, an expensive life, and to be lavish with his hospitality. If he is not so, he is considered mean and his reputation in business may suffer in consequence. The paradox that if he had not been careful with his money in the first place, he would never have achieved his present wealth.

Among the low income group, a different set of values exists. The young clerk who makes his wife a present of a new dress when he hasn't paid his house rent, is condemned as extravagant carelessness with money to the point of meanness is applauded as a virtue. Nothing in his life is considered more worthy than paying his bills. The ideal wife for such a man separates her housekeeping money into joyless little piles – so much for rent, for food for the children's shoes; she is able to face the milkman with equanimity every month, satisfied with her economising ways, and never knows the guilt of buying something she can't really afford.

As for myself, I fall into neither of these categories. If I have money to spare, I can be extravagant, but when, as is usually the case, I am hard up, then I am the meanest than imaginable.

84. Which of the following would be the most suitable title for the passage ?
