Read the following paragraph and answer the questions that follow.

If art does not facilitate new thoughts and be a constant reminder of historical time, it isn't art at all. Can art be devoid of social consciousness? Often, social consciousness defines the very credo of an artist's practice because artists don't exist in a socio-political vacuum. Their work and aesthetics are shaped by the times they live in, and the reality that surrounds them. Therefore, they find a multitude of ways to engage with socio-political or cultural factors – repeatedly, and across genres and generations. An artist who does so, risks labels such as 'activist artist'. But this is a facile way of branding art and artists. Artists are not propagandists, but their art is a constant reminder of historical time. I often argue that history is best recorded in fiction; the greater truths are to be found in works resisting linear readings and interpretations of history. The social concern of the artists could differ, as they always have, but the ivory tower artist is a menacing creature. Art ought to see and show people, not as objects of anthropological inquiry but as repositories of a moment in history, perhaps even as living archives.

the following poem and answer the questions that follow.

Father, when he passed on,

left dust

on a table of papers,

left debts and daughters,

a bedwetting grandson

named by the toss

of a coin after him,

a house that leaned slowly through our growing years on a bent coconut tree in the yard.

Being the burning type,

he burned properly

at the cremation

as before, easily

and at both ends,

left his eye coins

in the ashes that didn't look one bit different, several spinal discs, rough,

some burned to coal, for sons to pick gingerly
and throw as the priest said, facing east where three rivers met
near the railway station;
no longstanding headstone with his full name and two dates to holdin their parentheses everything he didn't quite manage to do himself, like his caesarian birth in a brahmin ghetto

and his death by heart-failure in the fruit market.
But someone told me
he got two lines

in an inside column
of a Madras newspaper sold by the kilo
exactly four weeks later to streethawkers
who sell it in turn to the small groceries
where I buy salt,
coriander,
and jaggery
in newspaper cones
that I usually read for fun, and lately
in the hope of finding a few lines.
And he left us
a changed mother
and more than one annual ritual.

“ To-morrow, and to-morrow, and to-morrow, Creeps in this petty pace from day to day
To the last syllable of recorded time,
And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
The way to dusty death. Out, out, brief candle!
Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player That struts and frets his hour upon the stage And then is heard no more: it is a tale Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, Signifying nothing”.
