SECTION – A(Reading Skills)*[M. M. : 20

1. Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow :

The choices we make daily – such as wearing a seatbelt, properly lifting heavy objects or intentionally avoiding dangerous situations — can either safeguard our well-being or lead to potentially harmful outcomes.

We must decide to take control of our lives. Exercising self-control, practicing self-discipline and setting boundaries in our lives are among the most important actions we can take. A life lacking discipline is characterized by carelessness.

We may perceive it as thrilling to live on the edge. We are drawn to the notion of "Yes, that's me ! living on the edge ! Woo-hoo !" It has become a widely embraced perspective on life. However, it is evident that even highways have painted lines that establish margins to enhance our safety while driving. If we veer too far to one side, we will end up in the ditch. If we cross the line in the middle, we could be in serious danger and we appreciate those lines because they help to ensure our safety. At times, we may not fully understand how boundaries contribute to our society.

I regret to admit that for the first 20 years of my professional life, I disregarded my limits. I often experienced significant physical discomfort. I often told myself, "I recognize my limits and that I have reached them, but I will disregard them to see how long I can manage." I consulted various doctors in an attempt to feel better through medications, vitamins, natural remedies, and anything else I could find. Some doctors would tell me, "It's just stress", which frustrated me greatly. I used to believe that stress indicated dissatisfaction with one's work or an inability to cope with life; however, I genuinely love what I do. However, I continued to push myself — travelling, engaging in speaking events and so forth — ultimately exhausting myself.

Eventually, I realized that I was leading an unsustainable life and needed to adjust my perspective and life style. You and I are not obligated to conform to others or compete with anyone else. Each of us has a right to be exactly as we are, and there is no need to apologize for it. We are not all the same, and it's essential to identify a comfort zone that allows us to enjoy life rather than succumbing to stress and pressure.

2. Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow :

India is rapidly advancing in the field of renewable energy, and one of the most significant achievements is the Bhadla Solar Park, located in the Jodhpur district of Rajasthan. This solar park is the largest of its kind in India and one of the largest in the world. Covering an area of 56 square kilometers, Bhadla Solar Park has a total installed capacity of 2245 megawatts (MW), which provides clean electricity to millions of people.

The Bhadla Solar Park was developed to harness the abundant sunlight in the desert region of Rajasthan, where the solar potential is immense. The park has over 8 million solar panels and can generate electricity at a low cost, making it a key player in India's transition to renewable energy. The solar park's vast size and capacity contribute to India's ambitious goal of achieving 175 GW of renewable energy capacity by 2022.

Apart from contributing to a cleaner environment, the Bhadla Solar Park also boosts the local economy by creating jobs in the region. The park has also helped in reducing the dependency on fossil fuels and has significantly lowered green house gas emissions. With the global push for sustainable development, Bhadla Solar Park serves as a model for other nations aiming to harness solar power on a large scale.

6. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow :

"Ga, ga, ga", he cried begging her to bring him some food. "Gaw-col-ah", she screamed back derisively. But he kept calling plaintively, and after a minute or so he uttered a joyful scream. His mother had picked up a piece of the fish and was flying across to him with it. He leaned out eagerly, tapping the rock with his feet, trying to get nearer to her as she flew across. But when she was just opposite to him, she halted, her wings motionless, the piece of fish in her beak almost within reach of his beak. He waited a moment in surprise, wondering why she did not come nearer, and then, maddened by hunger, he dived at the fish. With a loud scream he fell outwards and downwards into space. Then a monstrous terror seized him and his heart stood still. He could hear nothing. But it only lasted a minute. The next moment he felt his wings spread outwards. The wind rushed against his breast feathers, then under his stomach, and against his wings. He could feel the tips of his wings cutting through the air. He was not falling headlong now. He was soaring gradually downwards and outwards.

Her first journey — what careful, painstaking, elaborate plans she had had to make for it ! She had thriftily saved whatever stray coins came her way, resisting every temptation to buy peppermints, toys, balloons, and the like, and finally she had saved a total of sixty paise. How difficult it had been, particularly that day at the village fair, but she had resolutely stifled a strong desire to ride the merry-go-round, even though she had the money.

After she had enough money saved, her next problem was how to slip out of the house without her mother's knowledge. But she managed this without too much difficulty. Everyday after lunch her mother would nap from about one to four or so. Valli always used these hours for her 'excursions' as she stood looking from the doorway of her house or sometimes even ventured out into the village; today, these same hours could be used for her first excursion outside the village.

Questions :

1 × 5 = 5

- (i) How did Valli save money ?
- (ii) How much money had Valli saved ?
