2. For Detail on Skill Test see ANNEXURE- V
3. As the Common Recruitment Examination (CRE) is a unified recruitment process for multiple posts, it is possible that within a particular group, some posts may require a Skill Test as per the respective Recruitment Rules (RR), while others may not. In such cases, and subject to other criteria mentioned in the Detailed Recruitment Advertisement (DRA), candidates who qualify both the Computer Based Test (CBT) and the Skill Test shall be provisionally eligible for all posts in the group (i.e., both with and without Skill Test requirements). Candidates who qualify the CBT but do not qualify the Skill Test shall be considered provisionally eligible only for those posts within the group where a Skill Test is not required. The merit shall be prepared as per the prescribed rules based on performance in the CBT. Accordingly, a candidate who does not appear for or fails to qualify the Skill Test shall not be considered for allocation to posts that require a Skill Test but may be considered for allocation to posts that do not require it, subject to merit, choice, and applicable eligibility criteria.
